Bilingual education for children with speech, language and communication needs

Are naíonraí, Irish-medium (Gaelscoileanna) and Gaeltacht schools suitable for children with speech, language and communication needs? What are the advantages and are there disadvantages?

COME ALONG TO AN INFORMATION EVENING WHERE A PANEL OF EXPERTS WILL SPEAK ON A WIDE RANGE OF SPECIAL EDUCATION NEEDS.

JM Synge Theatre, Arts Block, Trinity College Dublin.

3rd May 2018 18.45-21.00

Have you got a question about bilingualism or the suitability of bilingual or immersion education for children with language disorders or other special educational needs?

Our panel will share advice, research and their experience on issues in bilingualism and bilingual education, as well as answering some frequently asked questions, including:

- Should children with language difficulties be placed in preschools or schools where they are taught through more than one language?
- What supports and resources are available in Irish-medium and Gaeltacht schools for children with dyslexia, autism and other special education needs?
- I've been advised not to send my child with special education needs to our local Gaelscoil. What should I do?
- Is post-primary level equally equipped to cater for my child with SEN or should I consider an English-medium school?
